FATHER COLLAPSES AT DEATH NEWS

Double Tragedy Occurs In Palatial Home On
Beverly Hills

Los Angeles, Feb. 18.—Murdered by his closest companion for eight years, E. L. Doheny, Jr., was dead today in dramatic climax to his sensational connection with the Teapot Dome scandal.

Hugh Plunkett, his confidential secretary and most trusted friend, killed the only son of the oil magnate, in his Beverly Hills home Saturday night and then ended his own life, police decided.

Doheny was 36 years old and the father of five children. His father was in a state of collapse today as a result of the tragedy.

Funeral services for Doheny will be held here tomorrow morning and will be conducted by the Rev. John J. Cantwell, bishop of the Los Angeles-San Diego diocese of the Roman Catholic church. Burial will be strictly private.

The tragedy occurred almost with an arm's length of Doheny's wife and Dr. E. C. Fishbaugh, the family physician. The guest bedroom on the first floor of the $500,000 Doheny mansion was the scene of the shooting.

Single Bullet End Life
Plunkett's body was found near that of the man he had slain. A single bullet through the head ended Doheny's life. District Atty. Buron Fitts declared he was thoroughly convinced that the double tragedy was an irrefutable case of murder and suicide.

Late Saturday night, Dr. Fishbaugh was urgently summoned to the Doheny home. He and Mrs. Doheny approached the guest bedroom. Plunkett, clothed, darted into the hallway—saw them, ordered them away, closed the door and sent a bullet through his head. Doheny was dead on the bedroom floor. He had been shot by Plunkett only a few minutes before the physician's arrival, but Mrs. Doheny had not heard the shot.

The elder Doheny collapsed when his gaze fell upon the body of his only son. At his home today, the family stated that though the oil king's heart was broken over the loss of his boy he was "holding his own" over the blow of the tragedy.

Today an autopsy will be held over the bodies of the two men.

MODIFICATION OF DRY LAWS ASKED

Episcopal Church Magazine Takes Steps To Change Legislation

New York, Feb. 18.—After years of trial, the only accomplishments to which prohibition can lay claim are substitution of the name speak-easy for saloon and poison for alcohol, according to the Church Temperance society of the Episcopal clergy in a statement made public today.

The statement, which is to appear in "The Churchman," Liberal Episcopal magazine, seeks support for a movement to modify the 18th amendment. One thousand, five hundred ministers of the Episcopal church already have pledged themselves to support the movement.

The statement declares that it was designed to end "misapprehension" regarding the society's "relationship" to the church and to re-state the society's opposition to "compulsory abstinence" as the worst foe of true temperance.

Modification of the Volstead law is not enough to bring about temperance, the statement reads, and it will ultimately be necessary to repeal the 18th amendment in order to permit the introduction of the Canadian system of liquor control in those states which desire it.

The statement admits that the society is not an official organization of the Episcopal church, but declares that it "is nevertheless an important Episcopal institution."

CAPONE DENIES PART IN KILLING OF GANG DURING CHICAGO RAID

Speaking From Palatial Florida Home Alleged Gangster Chieftain Expresses Surprise That
He Is Connected With Massacre

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 18.—"I don't know a thing about the killing of those seven gangsters in Chicago. How should I? I have been living here peacefully. Why do they blame me for all those unsolved crimes?" Al Capone, that mysterious personality from Chicago, whose name is spoken of in awe in some places, was speaking. He was being interviewed in his $250,000 island home in this fashionable winter resort where he has taken up his abode.

The Capone mansion was ablaze with lights. A party given by "Al" to some 50 persons, men and women, was in progress. Everybody seemed to be enjoying himself. The strains of soft music mingled with the laughter of the guests. Beautiful women conversed animatedly. Others, having donned bathing suits, were splashing in the open air swimming pool. Most of the guests were in evening clothes.

"I really have nothing to say about this latest outbreak in Chicago because I don't know a thing about it," said Capone. "I was rather surprised to see my name in headlines in connection with this case. It seems when anything like this happens and they don't know who did it, they immediately blame Al Capone."

Capone could not be induced to enter into a detailed discussion of the numerous charges that have been made against him in the past. He reiterated the statement made Saturday night that they would be blaming him next for the trouble between Paraguay and Uruguay.

"I have retired," he said. "I am making no more a secret of my whereabouts than any citizen. I am simply trying to live here quietly."

Capone gave the impression of being an exceedingly restless man. When met face to face he does not seem to be the sinister figure he has been painted. He moved about among his guests, most solicitous and affable. Capone talked very little and drank even less, if indeed he took a single drink. It was not a wild party in any sense, and it broke up well before 2 o'clock in the morning—an hour when many other parties in the Miami district were just hitting their stride.

The much publicized Capone is a gentle mannered soft spoken man about five feet ten inches tall and

"Resolved, That we go on record as opposing the action taken by the banks in this district in instituting a monthly charge of 50 cents on checking accounts, to apply on all accounts, maintained on less than $100 reserve. Columbiana Legislator Sees Passage Of Important Bills

W. H. Van Fossan Visions Rural Police In Near Future; Driver's Licenses Draw Comment;
Tells of Capital Social Life

Lisbon, Feb. 18.—While bills have been introduced covering the most important matters of legislation to come before the general assembly, including measures advocated by the governor, little action has been taken on any of them outside of the committee, announced State Representative W. H. Van Fossan today. In most cases, two bills on virtually the same subject have been placed in the hopper. Neither is found to be satisfactory. So a study of these measures is underway to get, if possible, a new bill that will embody the good features of both without defects.

"This is true of the rural police bills—S. B. No. 3 and H. B. No. 10. In the first the police are only a part of the personnel of the new state department recommended by the committee on economy appointed two years ago—the department of public safety," said Van Fossan.

Trouble With Bill
"The main trouble with this bill is that these police officers are given so many other duties to perform they would not have time to make any effective patrol of the highways. The house bill is more nearly a rural police measure pure and simple. From these two bills will come a third that in a short time will be before the two houses for consideration."

"So with the two drivers' license bills introduced in the senate, both of them have defects which are evident to anyone who will read them carefully. Both make it com-

"DEVIL FAST" IS QUIZZ SUBJECT

Church Officials to Check
Reason for Ohio Man's
36-Day Fast

New Hampshire, O., Feb. 18.—As church officials launched an investigation into the "devil-fast" of Fred Conrad, 27, here today, reliable reports stated that the man will end his fast on the 40th day.

Today marks the 36th day of the "hunger strike," instituted after Conrad's father, George, 51, refused to follow his son to a church where the younger man had been converted at a revival meeting.

Dr. E. S. Weaver and Supt. David F. Hays, of the Methodist Episcopal church, are to probe the case. Rev. Ray Dotson, the 27-year-old "crusader of Christ" who converted the young Conrad, is to bear the brunt of the officials' questioning, it is said.

Rev. Dotson will try to show the officials that Conrad's abstinence from food is not a publicity stunt, as has been openly charged. He will also have to show that it was not at his instigation that Conrad began the strike.

The little church here, where Rev. Dotson is preaching, has a seating capacity of about 200. Yesterday saw the edifice packed. Even standing room was at a premium.

Authorities of Auglaize county, agree there is no state law compelling Fred to eat if he doesn't want to, but they intimate that, law or no law, they will step in if physicians say Conrad's condition becomes critical. It was reported to be normal today.

Lisbon, Feb. 18.—Sheriff William Barlow and county commissioners will co-operate with State Highway Director Robert N. Waid in the enforcement of state load limit laws, it was announced today. In Lisbon a campaign against overloaded motor vehicles, traveling on county highways.

Waid will reduce the maximum load allowed on state highways to seven and one-half tons, starting at 1 o'clock, Wednesday morning, and county officials have offered co-operation to the fullest extent in enforcing the provision during the spring thaws.

The state highway department has furnished the county with one set of loadometers, and county commissioners will have available a second for use in weighing trucks, outside of city limits. Motor vehicles suspected of being overloaded near municipalities will be run onto platform scales inside the city.

New Weight Limit Set
The new load limit of seven and one-half tons includes the weight of vehicle and load, where solid tires are used. Six tons is the maximum on air tires on a power vehicle, trailer, or semi-trailer, Waid has announced.

On solid and pneumatic tires the limit for each inch of the tire's width follows: Three and three and one-half inches, 450 pounds per inch; four inches, 500 pounds per inch; five inches, 600 pounds; and six-inch width tires, 650 pounds per inch limit.

Announcement of the new maximum will be placed on all county roads, on the day that the new ruling goes into effect.

Lisbon, Feb. 18.—George McCaye of Salem, indicted by the January grand jury with Walter Mellinger on two counts for burglary of storehouses, went to trial again today. The case against James W. Muljen, who was indicted by the special grand jury last Monday has also been set for trial Monday, but it is doubtful if this cause will be reached, as two days were required to try McCaye when he was on trial recently. LINDY'S WORK MAY BE FUTILE

Legal Tangle Exists In
Creation of Mail
Route

Washington, Feb. 18.—Congress may take speedy action today to prevent the historic air mail flight of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh from ending up as a case of forced abandonment of the Pan-American route for which he blazed the trail. Unless legislation is enacted the new air mail route from Miami to Latin-America must be abandoned. Rep. Clyde Kelly (R) of Pennsylvania, declared.

The return of "Lindy," newly engaged and again acclaimed for his flying feats, was expected to dissipate the opposition which has blocked the measure in congress.

Because of a defect in legislation, Col. Lindbergh was unable to accept all of the mail offered for the return trip from Panama.

The omission of one word in the law under which the Latin-American route was established caused all the difficulty. Congress provided that the postoffice department could contract for air mail "from" the United States to foreign countries; but the law did not say "to" as well as "from."

Comptroller Makes Ruling

After the contract with the Pan-American Airways company was signed, Comptroller-General McCauley ruled that the postoffice department could pay for mail carried to a foreign country but could not pay for mail brought back from such a country.

On such instructions from the postoffice department, Col. Lindbergh declined to accept many sacks of mail on his return journey, just completed.

He was allowed to bring mail from the Panama Canal zone bearing United States stamps, and was allowed to carry free some mail from the republic of Panama. This was done on request of the state department, which desired to pay a courtesy to the little republic.

While the girl covered the two attendants, Robert Farrell, and Clarence Machin, with a gun, her two pals ransacked the station, and escaped with the day's receipts.

The trio forced Farrell and Machin into the machine which they drove up to the station, and took them to Baden, Pa., 35 miles east of East Liverpool, where they forced them out, while they continued east.

LEADERS STATE NO NEW MOVE CONTEMPLATED

Mayor's Veto Fails To Spur Opposition To Measure

CHANGE LEGALITY NOW QUESTIONED

Ohio Statutes Refer To Petitions Which Must Be Presented

Possibilities that residents of Salem who opposed city council's action in passing an ordinance providing for the renaming and renumbering of city streets would take advantage of Mayor Phil G. Hiddleston's veto of the measures and renew their battle to have the issues defeated seemed slight today. Leaders of the move stated that further action on their part was improbable.

The legality of the renaming ordinance was questioned in some circles, it being claimed that Section 3,725 of the general code of Ohio, provides that a municipality cannot change the name of a street unless upon petition of property-owners.

Petitions have been submitted for some of the changes which will be effected if the project goes through, but it was doubted whether requests have been made for all changes that are considered.

Mayor Makes Move

Mayor Hiddleston announced intentions of vetoing the measure on the expiration of the ten days allotted him for study of the ordinances, and declared that he was taking such action due to the fact that he considered the projects detrimental to best interests of the city.

He also stated that he had been informed, by authentic parties, that the city would be involved in a civil suit, if the changes in names of streets are made.

What action city council will take on Hiddleston's veto was uncertain today. At least one member of the legislative body, Councilman Max Adler, leader in the fight for the issues, has voiced emphatic opinion, that the matter should be passed over the veto, and stated that in his opinion, this was the action that will be taken.

Hiddleston was silent on the matter today, but will give in detail, his full objections to the matter, at tomorrow night's meeting. A large number of residents are expected to attend the meeting.

70TH CONGRESS NEARS ITS END

Senate and House Rush Matters to Complete Legislative Work

Washington, Feb. 18.—The lame duck session of the 70th congress rolled along today toward its scheduled death. Two weeks from tomorrow, with both house and senate adjourned, the legislative work of the congress will be completed. The Jones bill, increasing penalties for prohibition violators, occupied the senate while the house debated a bill providing a 44 hour week for postal employees. Hundreds of other measures however crowded the calendars in both branches. The Coolidge spokesmen in congress were concerned chiefly with getting the final appropriation bills enacted. The naval bill, with its funds for launching the new cruiser building program, the legislative appropriation bill, financing the activities of congress itself, and the second deficiency appropriation bill, providing deficiency funds for nearly all government departments, must be enacted finally before the adjournment. Once these bills have been passed, the administration leaders will be ready to stage obsequies for the dying congress. The senate meanwhile was encompassed by a small legislative jam.

High Points In Sermons Of Salem Pastors On Sunday

REV. A. C. WESTPHAL First Baptist Church

Rev. A. C. Westphal in his Sunday night sermon at the First Baptist church, speaking on the subject of the "Reckless Jump," said:

"Zaccheaus was a reckless fellow, carefree and thoughtless. He was reckless with his morals, he was reckless with other peoples money, he was reckless with the truth and honesty; he led a most reckless life, but the most reckless thing he ever did, was when he obeyed Jesus and jumped down, out of the sycamore tree, and took Jesus home to dinner with him. By so doing, he was ridiculed by his so-called friends. It cost him his wealth, for he promised to give back fourfold more than he ever stole, and half of what was left he gave to poor. The real test of religion and Christianity, is whether the individual is willing to take Jesus home to dinner, and to the shop, and to his companionships, and where ever he may go. This reckless jump changed the whole course of the life of this publican. It meant desertion of the former life of sin, and the following of new paths. It was an acknowledgement of past sins. It meant eternal life."

Peter took a reckless jump one time, out of the boat into the sea of Galilee, but Peter, petered out. He lost faith before he hit the water, when he saw the waves and whitecaps come, and Peter was obliged to perch himself once more on the deck of the fishing smack, a failure, for back of his reckless jump was a lack of faith. Moses took a reckless jump into a hard task, but he believed God, and God saw him through. David with his sling and pebbles took a reckless jump, but back of his venture was an implicit faith in One who was able. Tonight God wants a man to take a reckless jump, out of a tree, out of a boat, out of the plains of Midian, out of the family of Jesse, out of the pew of this church, out of sin, out of hell. God wants a man to jump into a task, into a decision for salvation, into an agreement to take Jesus home to dinner or any other place. Who will meet the challenge?

REV. GEORGE D. KEISTER, PASTOR
Holy Trinity English Lutheran Church

The pastor in preaching on "The Persistent Christ," in part said:

"Ours is a Persistent Christ. That word persistent in His life attains its broadest and deepest meaning. To Christ it meant clinging to a program, until it was finished. To Him it meant doing the same task over and over again until it was completely done. To Him it meant traveling the road, until the destination was reached, even though it seemed far away."

It was in the Garden of Gethsemane that one of the finest examples of Jesus' persistence is shown us. He fell upon His face once, twice, thrice. He expressed His obedience to the Father's will even amid the darkening shadow of the Cross.

Our Lord is still persistent. He never quits in disgust with the possible chance of lifting a sinner from his waywardness to the Kingdom of Grace. He never ceases to labor through the Holy Spirit and the Church His Bride to bring about a better world. Yes, He knows assuredly of the future extent of His Kingdom. "When every knee shall bow and every tongue shall confess Him Lord to the Glory of God the Father."

Our Lord's persistence urges us on. We dare not strive any lower. "Be not weary in well-doing, for in due season we shall reap if we faint not." "Be thou faithful until death and I will give you a Crown of Life."

REV. C. A. ROTH
Church of Our Saviour

One of the absorbing thoughts of the day is Repentance. It is one of the great words of the New Testament, being used more than 60 times in the revelation of God's truth to us. It means an after-thought or change of mind. In the Parable of the Two Sons, we have our Lord's own interpretation of repentance. One son said 'I will not'; but afterwards he repented and went. It is clear that what he did was to change his mind. His first thought was his own selfish one; he gave that up, he changed his own mind into harmony with his father's wish, and made his father's mind his own.

The importance of the right views of repentance cannot be overestimated. The difference between the true and the false affects the whole question of religion. It has been said that repentance and faith are the beginning of Christianity. They are the first principles upon which all else depends. They have been compared to the two lobes of the heart, distinct and yet so united that they beat with on full pulse of spiritual life.

HAGAN CHILDREN ATTEND SCHOOL

Transportation Cause Of Legal Action; Bond Now Posted

Lisbon, Feb. 18.—Edward Hagan of Hanover township, against whom an indictment was returned by the special grand jury last Monday for failure to send his children to school, and who entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned Friday morning, went before the court again Friday afternoon and changed his plea to guilty.

The case has attracted wide attention in Hanover township, and under the law the defendant had no defense, as his children were in school only 38 days during the current school term, but since an indictment was returned against him they have been in school daily.

For considerable time the Hanover township board of education had been paying Hagan $1 a day for transportation to take his children to school.

Asks for More Money
He wanted $1.50 a day. The board of education could not pay this amount. An action in mandamus was filed against the board of education to compel them to pay the increased charge. The court refused the writ and divided the costs between plaintiff and defendant.

Hagan was then arrested on a warrant charging him with a violation of the school laws. Judge Jones ordered Hagan to post $100 bond that he would keep his children in school, and a fine at this time was suspended. The court was informed that the children of Hagan are unusually bright, and that he owed it to them to keep them in school. In the event that he does not do this under the bond, the court declared that he would be committed to the county jail for 30 days.

LEGISLATOR

The Morgan bill in the house. The first would have a governor appoint a building commission of five with authority to select the site.

"The second would make the governor, auditor and attorney-general that commission, limiting the site to some point immediately adjacent to the State House grounds. By a decisive vote the house decided not to put the office building on the State House park.

"To iron out these and other differences is the problem that must be solved or the project will be abandoned for this session. The cost would be $5,000,000. To put up such a building is an admission that measure and surely there is no doubt it is badly needed.

Social Affairs Bright

"To refer to a very different matter the recent reception given by Governor and Mrs. Cooper to the members of the legislature and their wives at the executive mansion was a delightful affair. The genial personality of our host and hostess together with a minimum of formality gave the entire evening a homelike atmosphere which was representative of the social aims and spirit of Ohio Democracy at its best.

"Another satisfying feature to all of us we found in the attic—a cafeteria with a variety of tempting 'eats' not surpassed in any of the popular restaurants of J. O. Mills well known in the capital city.

"It is evident that the governor had not overlooked that well-known bit of practical philosophy—the importance of a full stomach.

PALESTINE MEN OPERATE PLANT

Preserving Company Will Start Operations; Will Settle Litigation

East Palestine, Feb. 18.—A group of East Palestine business men has taken over the former plant at that place operated under the name of the Coll Preserving company, with J. C. Chamberlain as trustee.

The plant has been in the hands of a receiver for about a year and the personal delinquent taxes remain to be paid before the court record is complete. S. B. McClure was receiver for the former company. The plant did an active business for some time after starting operations, obtaining its fruits and vegetables from Columbiana county.

After the company started operations it purchased a large orchard in the eastern part of the county, and soon afterwards litigation started.

James Coll was at the head of the company. For a number of years Coll was connected with varied interests in the produce yards at Pittsburgh, both as a receiver and by association with other receivers of fruits and produce.

Chicago, Feb. 18.—Trail of the St. Valentine's day massacre squad, which shot down seven members of the "Bugs" Moran gang in a North Clark st. garage, assumed definite direction today with a description of the slayers' automobile furnished to police by President H. Wallace Caldwell, of the board of education and Elmer R. Lewis, employee of the Beaver Paper company.

Caldwell said he saw a car which he took for a detective bureau vehicle, run past a red light going north near the scene of the slaughter. So close was the educator to the automobile that he noticed one of the occupants lacked one of his front teeth.

Lewis told police his truck had a collision with an automobile such as described by President Caldwell. Caldwell says such a collision occurred between Webster and Center avenues.

In the colliding car, according to both Lewis and President Caldwell, were three men in civilian clothes and two in police uniforms.

So similar to the usual detective bureau car was the gangster death car that Caldwell paid no particular attention to its violation of the traffic regulations, he said.

Lewis' story had already been received and was under investigation when the board of education head piled sensation upon sensation by confirming it definitely.

The morning of the killing, Lewis says, he was driving north in Clark st. at Webster ave. The slayers' car turned into Clark st., scraping its left fender against Lewis' truck.

Lewis drove across the street intersection and stopped. He started to where the driver of the killers' car was trying to straighten the fender, presuming that the men in the car were detectives. The killers' driver, however, waved him on, as though the accident was trivial.

Lewis stepped back into his truck and drove to 2129 North Clark st., almost opposite the shooting, where he delivered some merchandise.

He saw the men leave the car and go into the Moran garage. He did not notice any of them in police uniform, he said.

Lewis heard the machine guns. He thought, however, that the noise was the backfire of a truck.

His evidence, now supported by that of President Caldwell, is regarded as of utmost importance by state's.

Action on Nicaraguan Canal Project

The final settlement of the long proposed Nicaragua canal looms eminent in the minds of close observers. By purchase, the United States has the exclusive right to build the canal as shown on the proposed route on the map. Senator Edge, right, has offered a resolution to the Senate asking an appropriation of $150,000 for use in making a survey of routes. President-elect Hoover's (above) administration is expected to see some disposition of the matter.

Nicaragua Seems Now at Peace

United States Marines, shown with captured bandit flag, have brought to Nicaragua at least the semblance of peace. Continuance of his condition presages an early start on the long-talked-of Nicaraguan canal. This great work would be a great improvement on the present ways of water communication, as pictured at top, where is shown one of meagre waterways which are in use at present. This prospect has been heightened through the hearty co-operation between Colonel Henry Stimson, left, and President Moncada of Nicaragua in settling the internal affairs of the country.

Can't Share Cell With Sweetheart

Mrs. Ruth Ellingsworth and James Blaine Hibbert, both of Trenton, N. J., eloped to Omaha, Neb., but Hibbert's wife blighted their romance when Omaha detectives arrested James on her charges of wife and child desertion. Now the detectives won't even let Mrs. Ellingsworth share the same cell with her sweetheart.

Even the practical house dress knows its style these days—this delightful assortment of new ones for spring and summer includes a variety of different one-piece frocks—surplice closing, vestee effects, with collars and without, contrasting yokes, fancy pockets and piping. Such charming dresses are always ready for "unexpected company."

LOANS up to $500

You will agree it is not exactly the easiest matter in the world to regulate household finances so that there is always enough cash on hand to take care of the extra items that are bound to crop up. A few of these unexpected expenses a year wouldn't be quite so bad, but the great trouble is that "when it rains it pours" (not referring to Morton's Salt). There comes sickness or injury and the doctor's fees — the coal pile suddenly becomes hard to find with two months to go — the landlord wants the rent — and a red hot coal jumps out of the stove just three days after the insurance expired. It is indeed far from being such a simple matter to keep up with household expenses. Perhaps you too, can use a small loan as a temporary aid. Elmer C. Lugabill, Mgr.

Red And Black Easily Defeats Alliance High By 34-22 Score

Salem Piles Up Early Lead To Trim Invaders

Stonemen Hang Defeat On Red And Blue For Two-Point Defeat

Salem High had an easy time with its traditional Alliance High foe, Saturday night, at the Red and Black's home gym, amassing a 13 point advantage in the first half, and coasted through the rest of the game to a one-sided 34-22 victory.

The Stonemen, after the first quarter, were easily the masters of the competition, Alliance never threatening their comparatively safe lead, despite the prominent fact that the Salemites took things easy in the last half, after they held an 18-5 lead at the close of the first two sessions.

The game was not at all characteristic of the close, torrid battles that have been the occasion of past Salem-Alliance struggles. The Red and Blue played its best basketball in the first quarter, at the end of which Salem trailed by one point, but throughout the remainder of the conflict there was little action.

Alliance Scores First

Both teams played around with each other for the opening eight minutes of play without getting anywhere, Coach George Wilcoxen's proteges ending the quarter on top of a 4-3 score. Salem had the ball in its possession most of the quarter, but refused to take chances on trying for the basket from back of the foul line in Red and Blue territory, and tallied only one bucket from action—scored by its leader, Ed Sidinger. Desmond, starting his first game of the season for Wilcoxen, connected for both of Alliance's field scores.

Floyd Stone's combination appeared off as far as shooting was concerned, when the second session started, but as if by a signal, the team started zipping the leather into Alliance's hoop from all angles. Six points, four by Whinnery, and a third field goal by Jimmy Scullion, came in less than a minute of play. Alliance being kept on the defensive throughout the quarter.

Desmond's fifth point, a gratis shot, was the only counter chalked up by Alliance in the quarter. Five of the Red and Black's total came via the foul line.

Salem Continues Scoring

Salem continued its scoring rampage at the start of the third quarter, Cope tossing in a pair of fielders, and Whinnery following with a third, in the first two minutes of play. With the score 24-5, Alliance staged a hopeless attempt at a comeback, and tallied 11 points, while Salem went scoreless for the rest of the quarter, which ended, 24-16.

Play of the Red and Black had fallen off considerably after it amassed its overwhelming lead, and it seemed satisfied with checking attempts by Alliance forwards to score, and coasted through most of the last period also.

Six foul points, four by Cope, and a pair of them by Guilford gave Salem the edge in the point-making in the last period.

Sweet Revenge

Despite Salem's failure to run up a considerably larger score than the final result showed, it was sweet revenge for the two-point licking received at Alliance earlier this season.

Bob Cope's work under the basket, where he snaked four field goals through for eight points, and the all-around display by Whinnery, were outstanding lights in the Stonemen's play. Desmond, who up until this game had been used mostly for reserve work, collected 14 points for Alliance.

Salem reserves put up a stiff battle against the crack Alliance second stringers, the game ending with Alliance on top of the 29-22 score. It was the finest display of basketball put up by the Salem scrubs this season.

Salem Saxons Win Seventh Penn-Ohio German League Victory

Recommend Olympic Selection Changes

Jackson V. Scholz, lower right, former national 220-yard champ, started something when he suggested a new method of choosing the Olympic team. He wants to have the team picked at least a year in advance, saying that under the present system the fierce competition for places that athletes point for the tryouts rather than the games a month or so later. Eddie Farrell, lower left, of Harvard, suggests picking 50 per cent. a year ahead, training these men and picking others as their merits warrant. Keene Fitzpatrick, center, of Princeton, would have a national committee of seven pick the athletes on the basis of year's performances. Harry Hillman, upper left, of Dartmouth, thinks more tryouts at least two months before the games would help. Jack Ryder, upper right, of Boston College, recommends a czar who would pick the team a la Landis. Harry Gill, left center, of Illinois, would spread the tryouts over a longer period. All agree something should be done and no doubt it will be before another Olympiad rolls around if the coaches insist.

Farrell Outfit Fail To Check Titular March

Salem Given Stiff Battle In First Half, But Finishes Strong

Salem Saxons strengthened their hold on first place in the Penn-Ohio German league, Saturday night, winning the seventh game of the season over the Farrell, Pa. Saxons, by a 54-22 score, at Memorial gym.

The Pennsylvanians put up a stiff battle for the first two periods of the contest, and held the Salem quintet to a 22-16 score. The masterful offense that last year led the Quaker City five to 11 consecutive triumphs and the league title, again characterized its play in the final half, Farrell being completely out-class.

Salem scored 32 points to the invaders' six in the last half, through stellar defensive work of the entire combination, and flashy offensive exhibitions of Older, Hann, and Filp.

This trio furnished high spots of the fracas, gathering in 44 of Salem's total. Hann leading the point-making with 16 counters, Older tallying 15 times. Filp snagged six field goals and a free throw for 13 points.

In the preliminary, Salem Junior Saxons easily trounced the Farrell reserves, 29-14.

The Salem outfit has nine games left on its schedule, meeting the Youngstown Saxons, at Memorial gym, this Saturday. Next weekend the team invades Cleveland East for the second clash with the crack Fifth city outfit.

Damascus Hi Teams Enter Tournament

Damascus High basketball teams will play their opening games in the Mahoning county tournament Friday and Saturday, the boys meeting North Lima High basketballers, on the first day of the tourney, while the girls play the North Lima lassies, Saturday.

The Quakers annexed a pair of victories Saturday, both teams defeating Sebring High teams. The boys won, 26-18, and the score of the girls' contest, was 33-10.

Damascus teams have gone through a fairly successful season, and will probably make a strong showing in the tourney.

"A SINGLE MAN"

December and May romances do not always endure.

"A Single Man," now playing at the State theater as a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer feature, brings to the screen a very new idea in the mating call of youth to middle age.

In this co-starring vehicle for Lee Cody and Allen Pringle, an adaptation of a famous stage hit, the futility of pursuing fleeing youth is shown amid a hilarious setting of collegiate parties, cocktail dances and necking moonlight swims.

As the bachelor novelist who makes a belated quest for romance, Cody scores in a new characterization, a striking departure from his usual roles of sophistication. Miss Pringle, too, wins new screen triumphs as the efficient secretary whose attractiveness does not manifest itself until her employer wears of his wild run with the flaming youth.

Quilian family of vaudeville fame. Eddie Quilian has established himself among the foremost juvenile comedians and his recent work in "Geraldine" Booth Tarkington's well known story, gained him a host of new admirers. In "Noisy Neighbors," he is cast in a character that fits him like a glove.

"BLONDES BY CHOICE"

"Blondes by Choice," now playing at the Royal theater is a fast moving and amusing affair, without a dull spot in its entire six reels. The comedy situations have been expertly worked out by Director Del Ruth and his associates and the result is a diverting and hilarious comedy, played in a tempo that is just right, without a single dull stretch.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Berlin—Organization for a mass attack on cancer was advocated before the Berlin Medical association by Dr. Paul Lazarus, director of the Maria hospital. Dr. Lazarus based his demand on the assertion that the majority of cancer cases can be cured, provided treatment starts early enough. The so-called cancer epidemic, he said, was not really an epidemic. Today, he said, a combination of surgery and X-ray treatment promises almost certain cure, if applied in time.

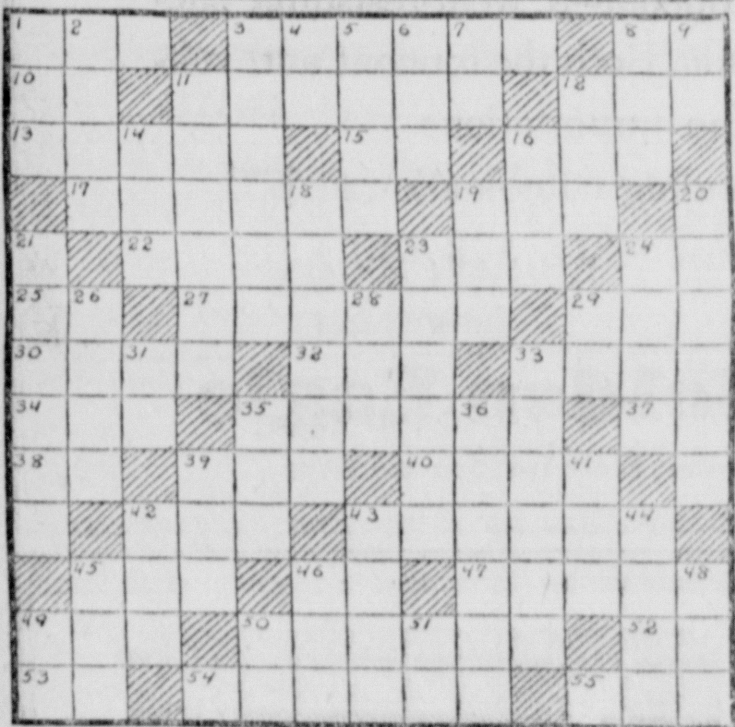

New York—Although unused and receiving none of attention and glory that goes with a bright uniform and shiny badge, the "white wing" of New York showed a casualty list of 2,148 during 1928, according to figures made public by A. A. Taylor, street commissioner.

Berlin—Joachim von Brauchwitz, equally well known as manufacturer and dog lover, has donated a large fund to establish a cemetery for dogs at Stahnsdorf, a suburb of Berlin.

Mary looks very chic in a new knee-length coat of printed pique—and a full trousered pajama suit.

Mary Gold's wardrobe will be most complete—she will have an outfit for each occasion—Mr. Gold's pocket-book is beginning to look as though it had been walked over by a troop of elephants.

Her ensemble of chartreuse colored crepe trimmed in fox is very new and smart this season.

For evening wear nothing could be in better taste than a wrap of gold metal cloth with sable collar.

This graceful evening gown of shell pink is made from small patterned lace and has the smartly dipping hem line.

Henry Austlin's heart will beat with pride as they ride side by side on the bridge-path.

The New Tight-Fitting Hipline

(Posed by Sally Blane)

Only infrequently does a model so attractive as the above come out of the ateliers of the Paris dressmakers. It shows the new glove-fitting hipline in a creation of beige crepe designed for street wear. The rope of pearls adds a distinctive touch.

Our Modern Daughters and Ultra-Modern Dress

Even mothers who think they are up-to-date are often shocked by the extreme modernity of their daughters. The departure of petticoats and other substantial undies to realms unknown, sheer laces, tinted may be the prevailing shade, "make up" and smoking we have had to accept as a sign of the times. But it is other things that at times are puzzling.

At the theatre recently we saw a girl with the most charming, spangled, jet short jacket over her evening gown. What a relief from the bare arms, and backs, we thought, and asking, learned that it was quite the newest garment—a "cocktail jacket." Despite the name we liked it and approved its growing use.

We have met the smoking suit, glorified pajamas and the long Chinese coat, and feel the "rig" is a decided improvement over the much abused negligee or the uncertain position of the older tea gown. Charmingly informal yet modestly concealing we welcome their acquaintance. Cues set of soft black satin, embellished with Chinese blue embroidery, was most attractive.

Embroidered Chinese slippers to match completed the suit. Many colors are worn and even stout women do not look unattractive in the suits.

Negligees and bed jackets are too intimate to be worn outside the bedroom, unless in emergency, and we are glad that modern women have relegated them to their proper realm. School girls are wearing the negligees made of wash satins and prettily tailored, trimmed here and there with flat matching embroidery, leaving the laces and dyed swansdown, furs and other feather trimmings for older women.

Again we have seen the beach pajama sets, worn with and without the attractive beach capes, the sort the Southern sojourners packed for the winter trip. The beach pajamas are becoming and are apparently well liked. We admire the open frankness of modern young people today when in good taste, and think it healthier than the mock modesty of the past which was paraded as a sign of innocence.

Those Run Down After Serious Illness Need Strength-Building Food Tonic

Father John's Medicine of Great Value In Rebuilding Health.

Following a period of serious illness comes a time of great danger to those who find themselves unable to regain normal strength and health.

This weakness which seems to make recovery so hard and long-delayed is a period of special danger because the resisting power of the system is lowered and the patient has little strength to fight off colds, coughs, and other more serious illness.

During this time of danger the safe tonic for all the family is Father John's Medicine. This old-fashioned pure and wholesome food medicine contains strength-building elements which are easily taken up by the weakened system and quickly made into new strength and health. Contains no narcotic drugs in any form.

charm instead of having lost any. These new women of the world are far more companionable to men than the women who, perhaps, were better cooks and housekeepers in the old days. While the modern children are much more scientifically cared for than those of long ago.

"It has been estimated," said Miss Anderson, "that there are between 20,000,000 and 25,000,000 homes in this country and no one has ventured to estimate the amount of capital that is invested in this tremendous enterprise."
